of Quindaro, and was born and reared in Wyandotte county.

When the war broke out he was running a blacksmith shop in the little country villinge just outside of Kansas City, Kan, and at the first cail he left the anvil and forge for the musket and knapsack and offered for enlistment in company B, but the limit had been reached and no more men could be taken in. The brave young fellow was not to be daunted, however, and he patiently awaited the second call, when the government sent back from San Francisco for more recruits to complete the Twentieth Kansas regiment.

He enlisted and was assigned to Company L, and it was in this command that he fell before the charge of Aguinaldo's insurgents.

pany L, and it was in this command that he fell before the charge of Aguinaldo's insurgents.

Young Kline was a big, handsome young fellow and was well liked and popular with all who knew him. He was just such a boy as would have made a good soldier and it was expected if there was to be any fighting that he would be in the thickest of the fray.

Only last Thursday young Kline's father received a long letter from the boy in the far-off Philippines, in which he spoke of his soldier life and the experiences he had had. He said that trouble was anticipated and that the men were expecting a fight every day, but there was nothing in his letter that would indicate that he had any fear of the result of a conflict with the enemy or that he had any premonition of the fate that awaited him. Young Kline was a warm friend of Gilbert E. Mayor, son of H. A. Mayor, of Si Delaware street, who enlisted with him and shared a tent with him in the Philippine islands.

Hard to Get Volunteers For the Performance.

A big audience at the Crawford theater last night was tendered a "rare terosichorean treat." Lole Fuller, Carmencita and Little Egypt were on the stage all at the same time

They were not exactly the originals of the famous dancers, but you couldn't have convinced the two strapping big fellows and the slender youth, engaged in impersonating them, to the contrary They were subjects of Prof. H. "Carmencita," said Prof. Flint to the young drug clerk, togged out in a light blue wrapper and a hood, who was en-gaged in going through the motions of powdering his face before an imaginary mirror, "do you know that Loie Fuller over here says she's prettier than you

Why the little devil, how dare she,' said the drug clerk in a most offended tone, tappling his forehead affectionately under the hood where the Spanish ring-lets should be.

"Little Egypt," remarked the professor to the tallest member of the group, posing in the middle of the stage with a vell over his face and a miniature ballet dress around his middle, "did you ballet dress around his middle, "did you hear that Carmencita said she had a prettler ankle than you?" "Judge for yourself," said the young Hercules, stooping and rolling his trousers' leg over an ankle of sufficient

"Sweet Loie", he continued after the "maidanty he continued after the "maidenly joy" had been in progress a minute or two, "don't you know that Little Egypt and Carmencita say they can kick high-er than you can?"

The captivating smile disappeared in-stantly from Loie's face. "Watch me," he yelled, and catching up his skirt he

In turn the pro-fessor recalled "Little Egypt" and "Car-mencita" from the realm of their terpsi-chorean triumphs, and they followed the action of the first of the trio to regain his senses. "Little Egypt" was so "cut up" over the attire he found himself in that he refused to return to the stage and made his way out of the back of the theater and through the mud in the

At the start it looked doubtful if there would be hypnotic entertainment at the Crawford theater last night. Prof. Flint, by way of preface, made a short talk on hypnotism and told how 95 per cent of the young men who had volun-teered for the late war in the western cities had at one time or another been subjects of his. Then he called for vol-unteers for the evening's entertain-

COUNCIL WARY.

City Hall Ordinance Fails to Be Adopted.

No Provision For Fire Department the Cause.

WANT TO BE SURE

That It Will Not Be Located in the City Hall.

Matter Will Be Adjusted Next 2

Potwin Annexation Is Also Deferred.

Monday Evening.

The new city hall ordinance was not passed by the city council last night and was in reality defeated, though the vote was afterward reconsidered.

The council did not refuse to act because the members are enemies to progress and the development of the city, but by reason of a belief that the ordinance did not make the question of the disposal of the fire department clear. Those who voted against the ordinance were Councilmen Skinner, Benson, El-liott, Mergan and Blossom. The same men afterward voted solidly for reconsideration

Final action was finally postponed un-til next Monday evening when the ordi-nance will be ready for passage. The councilmen who voted against the ordinance feared that an attempt would be made to house the fire department in the city hall.

in the city hail.

A large delegation from the Commercial club was present at the meeting to urge the passage of the ordinance.

Maj. T. J. Anderson, secretary of the club, said: "I am here to discuss a subject you have never heard anything about before—the auditorium. It was suggested by your city attorney at a meeting of the Commercial club that the present city hall be sold and the money be used to build a new city hall and auditorium, bonds being issued to make up the balance. We are here now asking you to pass this ordinance so that the proposition may be submitted at the April election."

John R. Mulvane said: "This matter ought to have your earliest attention.

ought to have your earliest attention. The proposition should be voted on at the spring election. The people are earnestly and solidly right on this mat-ter and you only have to pass the ordi-nance and the voters will do the rest." Councilman Drew—What are you going to do for an engine house for the fire department?

City Attorney Bird-That is a ques-

City Attorney Bird—That is a question of detail that may be arranged hereafter. You can have that provided for in the plans and specifications.

Councilman Skinner—I see the ordinance provides for 30 year bonds. Why not make them 20 years?

Mr. Mulvane—A 30 year bond will sell better than a 20 year bond. The ordinance provides for a 4 per cent bond and I think the time is short enough for that kind of a bond.

Councilman Skinner—I would like to have the ordinance indicate what is to be done with the fire department.

be done with the fire department.

Councilman Elliott—I don't believe we should have the fire department in the new city hall. Councilman Warner—I do not regard it as an impossibility to have the fire department in the same building as the auditorium. I have never been bothered here by the fire department. Councilman Burgess—It strikes me that this does not cut much figure. The thing to do is to pass the ordinance.

The vote was then taken with the result that the ordinance was defeated— Councilmen Drew, Warner, Roundtree and Burgess voting for it.

Mayor Fellows—It seems to me that something ought to be done with this something ought to be done with this ordinance out of courtesy to the Com-mercial club if nothing else,

Councilman Skinner—Put a provision in the ordinance for the fire department and it will be adopted. Councilman Drew-I voted for this councilman Drew—I voted for this ordinance but I can see a good reason why these councilmen voted against it. It seems to me that the wording of the ordinance would compel us to include the fire department, city hall and auditorium in one building. Councilman Skinner moved that the ordinance be referred to the judiciary committee and the motion preva with a proviso that a report is to made next Monday evening.

POTWIN ANNEXATION. Final Action Deferred Until Next Monday Evening.

The Potwin Place-Topeka annexation project has suffered a slight setback but it will not prevent the union of the two municipalities. The two councils met in joint session last night but the details could not be completed on account of the indebted-ness of Potwin which aggregates about $25,000 exclusive of an indebtedness of $12,000 on account of school purposes. The annexation ordinance includes Capt. J. B. Johnson's home, the Bates tract and Hartsock's addition.

The limits will extend to the top of the hill west of the Dr. H. C. Linn

The ordinance was referred to the joint ways and means committee of the two councils for report next Monday evening.

MUST BE A PETITION. Council Can Not Arbitrarily Pave an Alley. 'At the meeting of the council a week
